Assiniboine Park Zoo. Penguins dress their best for opening day

BERNICE PONTANILLA

They waddled, swam and spent a long time staring back at the dozens of Winnipeggers who showed up to greet the Assiniboine Park Zoo's newest residents.

Three African black-footed penguins, named Tubbs, Sal and Mooshu, were unveiled along with the HUB Horizon Insurance Penguin Cove at the zoo on Friday, to the delight of dozens of Grade 4 and 5 Laura Secord School students.

"So cute," said Sofia Hinojosa, a Grade 5 student at Laura Secord, when asked what she thought of the guests, who will be joined by a fourth penguin named Jelly later this summer.

"I liked how the penguin was swimming; it was doing funny tricks!"

Gabriel Portillo, in Grade 4, said he plans on returning to see "the awesomest" penguins with his family.

These were just the reactions Tim Sinclair-Smith, director of zoological services, was aiming for.

"You'll see them underwater — with the exhibit that has been specifically designed so that you can get up close and personal with these animals — and be able to see them and see how they swim and interact with each other."

The HUB Horizon Penguin Cove, located in the zoo's retrofitted gift-shop area, will be open during the regular zoo hours, daily from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., until Sept. 30.

Cold case.
RCMP find remains of missing woman, 36

Manitoba RCMP said Friday they have found human remains in a home they've been investigating since Tuesday.

RCMP, in conjunction with Winnipeg police, have been inside a home on Lorne Avenue in Winnipeg's Point Douglas area since Tuesday.

Cpl. Miles Hiebert told a throng of media Friday afternoon they've identified those remains as Myrna Letandre, 36. Letandre was one of the missing women named in Project Devote, a special unit that investigates cold-case missing and murdered people.

Hiebert said the RCMP's special liaison for Project Devote has spoken with Letandre's family.

"We can only hope that they'll be encouraged and we can hope that other families will be encouraged by this good news," he said, adding he expects the forensic identification unit will be at the Lorne home for a number of days yet.

Hiebert would not confirm the death of Letandre is related to the murder of a B.C. woman — who used to live in Winnipeg — last week.

Jennifer McPhereson, 41, was reported missing last week and later found dead on Hanson Island, B.C., where she had lived for several years with her husband Traigo Ehkid Andretti. RCMP charged Andretti, 37, with second-degree murder in connection to her death.

Hiebert said he could not confirm if Letandre was living in the Lorne Avenue rooming house at the same time that McPherson and Andretti reportedly did. BERNICE PONTANILLA/METRO, WITH FILES FROM SHANE GIBSON

Spate of garage fires might be arson

The firebugs appear to be out.

Two garages were destroyed Friday and the backside of a house melted after a quick-moving fire broke out in a garage in the 800 block of Dominion Street around 10:30 p.m., and quickly spread to the neighbouring garage.

"We came around the corner from the north, and this thing was licking to the top of the tree, that's how high it was," said Winnipeg Fire Department district chief Gary Pinette, gesturing to a 25-foot-tall tree in the backyard.

Pinette said there were reports of suspects in the area, but wouldn't say the fire was an arson. "We don't know for sure," he said.

No one was hurt in the fire after the homeowners evacuated, added Pinette, noting the houses on either side of the fire were also evacuated as a precaution. Damage was estimated at $60,000.

There were more garage fires close to each other Saturday afternoon, after fires destroyed garages in the 700 block of Pritchard Avenue at about 1 p.m.

'Murder Mansion' for sale

Infamous property.
Owner wants to sell the site of multiple killings, but only if the new owner will tear it down for redevelopment

SHANE GIBSON
shane.gibson@metronews.ca

The young owner and landlord of a core-area rooming house known as "Murder Mansion" to neighbours has had enough of the building's violent reputation and wants to sell the notorious block and see it torn to the ground.

Jeff Shwaluk, 29, said he's worked hard to clean up the former home to gangs, crack dealers and prostitutes since buying the three-storey apartment at 624 Balmoral St., three years ago. However, he said he's tired of the threats he said he's been getting since a homicide at the building made headlines in February.

"When something like that happens I can see why people might think that it never changed," he said, noting the building's reputation was cemented by three gang-related killings within its walls the year before he took it over. "I've just had enough of arguing my point to everybody — if they've got such great ideas for it, then step up."

Shwaluk, who lives onsite and bought the property with the intent of kicking out the riff-raff, said people have threatened to burn his building down since Ronald Harold McKinnon, 54, was killed in a suite there Feb. 26.

After receiving a few offers to buy the property, Shwaluk has decided to consider other offers on the 22-unit building up until his 30th birthday May 16 — but he has one condition: The new owner has to promise to tear the building down and redevelop it.

"I wouldn't sell this place to another landlord because they probably (are) ... just going to run it into the ground and juice it like some slumlord," he said.

Interested? Call Shwaluk at 204-293-1060.

Icebreaker. Cottages ruined after winds push frigid wall onto shore

One minute, cottage owners on the southern shore of Manitoba's Dauphin Lake were cooking on their barbecues, admiring the views across the still-frozen ice.

The next minute, that ice was rumbling up the shore like a giant nine-metre-high bulldozer, tearing apart their decks, then slicing through some homes and tipping others on their sides.

"The whole thing happened in about 10 minutes," said Clayton Watts, the deputy reeve of the Rural Municipality of Ochre River. "We had people barbecuing on their decks. They turned around to go inside to get something, they came back out and their decks were ripping apart.... It was like a freight train coming through, they say."

Watts said strong winds with gusts up to 90 kilometres per hour on Friday evening forced the ice onto the shore at Ochre Beach, one of a couple of beaches that make up the summer community that's about 200 kilometres northwest of Winnipeg.

A massive row of ice pushed by high winds destroyed cottages near Dauphin Lake on Friday evening. THE CANADIAN PRESS

More than two dozen structures were damaged and about a dozen of those were completely destroyed, he said.

There were no reports of injuries. Watts said people were trying to salvage what they could on Saturday.

An excessive number of people in my life, myself included, have recently lost someone close to them or are going through the stressful process of dealing with extreme sickness. It's pretty much the worst.

No, actually it is the worst.

I suppose a lot of it is my age and the circles I roll in, but man, are there a shocking number of people for whom this is the new reality.

It's like I skipped getting married and having babies and went straight to this. I will go to more funerals this year than weddings.

So, people, we really need to start living. We're still here, let's max it out.

"One day, I'd like to run a marathon" means sign up for one right now. You'll figure it out.

There is zero chance you will regret it. I highly doubt we're going to get to the end our lives and be thankful we didn't pursue that dream of ours.

No chance.

Gunfire turns parade into pandemonium

New Orleans shooting. Cops say street violence, not terror, responsible for injuring at least 19

Gunmen opened fire on dozens of people marching in a neighbourhood Mother's Day parade in New Orleans on Sunday, wounding at least 19 people, police said.

The FBI said that the shooting appeared to be "street violence" and wasn't linked to terrorism.

Many of the victims were grazed and most of the wounds weren't life-threatening, according to a police news release. No deaths were reported by Sunday night.

The victims included 10 men, seven women, a boy and a girl.

The children, both 10 years old, were grazed and in good condition, but police said at least two people were in surgery Sunday night.

Mary Beth Romig, a spokeswoman for the FBI in New Orleans, said federal investigators have no indication that the shooting was an act of terrorism.

"It's strictly an act of street violence in New Orleans," she said.

Officers were interspersed with the marchers, which is routine for such events. As many as 400 people joined in the procession that stretched for about three blocks, though only half that many were in the immediate vicinity of the shooting, said Police Superintendent Ronal Serpas.

Police saw three suspects running from the scene in the city's 7th Ward neighbourhood. No arrests had been made as of Sunday night.

The neighbourhood where the shooting happened was a mix of low-income and middle-class row houses, some boarded up. As of last year, the neighbourhood's population was about 60 per cent of its pre-Hurricane Katrina level.

Police vowed to make swift arrests. Serpas said it wasn't clear if particular people in the second line were targeted, or if the shots were fired in a random fashion.

Hadfield is earthbound after handing over space station

Canadian astronaut Chris Hadfield handed over command of the International Space Station as he prepared to return to Earth.

He wrapped up a five-month visit to the giant laboratory, saying it's time to turn over the reins to cosmonaut Pavel Vinogradov.

Hadfield, the first Canadian to command the station, said he achieved the goals he set out for himself before making the journey in late December.

Plans call for Hadfield and two other crew members to leave the station Monday just after 6 p.m. CDT aboard a Russian Soyuz spacecraft.

They are due to land in Kazakhstan about three-and-a-half hours later.

While he's happy to be heading home, Hadfield said both he and his crew "would come back given the opportunity." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Turkey says it won't get into Syrian war

Twin car bombs. Biggest incident of violence across border since start of crisis

Turkey's prime minister vowed Sunday his country won't be drawn into Syria's civil war, despite twin car bombings the government believes were carried out by a group of Turks with close ties to pro-government groups in Syria. Forty-six people died.

Syria has rejected allegations it was behind the attacks. But Turkish authorities said Sunday they had detained nine Turkish citizens with links to the Syrian intelligence agency in connection with the bombings in the border town of Reyhanli, a hub for Syrian refugees and rebels just across from Syria's Idlib province.

Former Marxist group

Authorities suspect the leader of a former Marxist group, Mirhac Ural, now believed to be based in Syria, may have revived his group and ordered the attack.

Saturday's bombings, which were 15 minutes apart, damaged some 735 businesses and 120 apartments. It also wounded dozens of people, including 50 who remained hospitalized Sunday.

Turkey has firmly sided with the Syrian opposition, hosting its leaders along with rebel commanders and providing refuge to hundreds of thousands of Syrian refugees. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sleepless in Israel. Critics restless over Netanyahu's $127K bed on 5-hour flight

Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu will seek alternate sleeping arrangements when travelling after receiving a sky-high bill for installing a customized bed on a recent flight to London, officials close to the leader said.

Netanyahu found himself facing a public uproar on Sunday after Israel's Channel 10 TV reported over the weekend that he had spent $127,000 US in public funds on a special sleeping cabin for the five-hour flight to attend Margaret Thatcher's funeral last month.

Netanyahu's office initially defended the decision, saying the prime minister had a busy schedule ahead of the flight and needed to be fresh for important meetings in Britain.

But following public criticism, officials close to Netanyahu said late Saturday that he had been unaware of the cost, and once informed, ordered the bed be cancelled on all future flights.

The uproar comes at a delicate time. Netanyahu's government is in the process of drawing up a budget expected to include painful austerity measures and tax increases due to a widening deficit.

Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu THE ASSOCIATED PRESS FILE

On Saturday night, several thousand people took to the streets in Tel Aviv and other cities to protest the expected budget cuts.

Earlier this year, Netanyahu stopped buying ice cream from his favourite Jerusalem parlour after an Israeli newspaper discovered his office was spending $2,700 a year for the frozen treat. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Illegal-downloading megasuits rear head north of the border

Anti-piracy battle. Case involving Teksavvy, Voltage Pictures could pave way for U.S.-style actions on file-sharing

Massive lawsuits targeting people who illegally download copyrighted content are common in the U.S., where people have been stuck with hefty fines and out-of-court settlements. Now there's an attempt to bring that to Canada.

At the centre of the effort is Canipre, the only anti-piracy enforcement firm that provides forensic services to copyright-holders in Canada.

The Montreal-based firm has been monitoring Canadian users' downloading of pirated content for several months. It has now gathered more than one million different evidence files, according to its managing director Barry Logan.

U.S. precedent

- Such lawsuits have been common in the U.S. Between 200,000 and 250,000 people have been sued in the last two years, according to Internet civil-liberties group the Electronic Frontier Foundation.
- Canadian consumers don't risk such severe damages as in the U.S., because of a bill passed last year that modified the federal Copyright Act. Bill C-11 imposed a limit of $5,000 on damages awarded for non-commercial copyright infringement.

One of its clients is now before Federal Court in Toronto, requesting customer information for over 1,000 IP addresses — a user's unique Internet signature — collected by Canipre.

That client is the American studio Voltage Pictures, maker of hundreds of films, including the Academy Award-winning The Hurt Locker. On the other side of the case is Teksavvy, an Ontario-based Internet provider. The IP addresses flagged by Canipre link back to its users.

The case is set to resume next month. If the court orders Teksavvy to hand over customer info, it could be the beginning of a new chapter in the anti-piracy battle in Canada.

"We have a long list of clients waiting to go to court," said Logan, who estimates that about 100 different companies are paying close attention to the case. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Branson honours a bet

British entrepreneur Richard Branson, left, poses with AirAsia's chief executive Tony Fernandes while dressed as an AirAsia flight attendant at a low-cost carrier terminal in Malaysia on Sunday. Business to have bigger role in Arctic debates: Minister

Creating a bigger presence for industry at the world's premiere international forum on northern issues won't distract from its work on environmental problems, says the Conservative cabinet minister about to lead the group.

"Absolutely not," said Leona Aglukkaq, who will assume the chairmanship of the group of the eight nations that ring the North Pole starting on Wednesday.

"That research — the work of interest to all the Arctic regions — that will continue during our chairmanship."

Central to Aglukkaq's plans for her two-year term heading the Arctic Council is the creation of an Arctic business forum, which she described as a way for northerners and northern business to share ideas and solutions. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Factory collapse. Bangladesh to raise garment workers' pay in wake of tragedy

Bangladesh's government plans to raise the minimum wage for garment workers, a cabinet minister said Sunday, after the deaths of more than 1,100 people in the collapse of a factory building focused international attention on the textile industry's dismal pay and hazardous working conditions.

A new minimum-wage board will issue recommendations for pay raises within three months, Textiles Minister Abdul Latif Siddiky said. The cabinet will then decide whether to accept those proposals.

A Bangladeshi woman reacts Sunday after her son's body was found in a garment factory building that collapsed April 24. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The wage board will include representatives of factory owners, workers and the government, he said.

The April 24 building collapse, the world's worst garment industry disaster, has raised alarm about conditions in Bangladesh's powerful textile industry, which makes clothing for major retailers around the world.

Working conditions in the $20-billion US industry are grim, a result of government corruption, desperation for jobs and industry indifference. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

FISHING FOR SYMBOLS OF MANITOBA

URBAN COMPASS

Colin Fast
winnipeg@metronews.ca

Having apparently resolved that whole PST issue, the provincial government has decided to lure us back into a state of complacent support by giving us all a fish.

No, not an actual fish. Have you seen the budget? They can't afford that.

Instead, we'll be getting our own provincial fish, who will join the prairie crocus, bison, great grey owl and Burton Cummings as official symbols of Manitoba.

But we're still lagging far behind other provinces and states when it comes to the official business of naming official things. For example, Alberta celebrates rough fescue grass, Nova Scotia has the duck tolling retriever, Idaho worships potatoes, Colorado loves square dancing and Minnesota honours the blueberry muffin.

So, in the interest of telling the Manitoba story, here's a few suggestions for other provincial icons that deserve recognition:

Insect: The temptation here is to pick something cute, like a butterfly or ladybug; or industrious, like a honeybee. But the mosquito is the only choice. It's ugly and has no redeeming qualities, just like the Bombers, but it's also a quintessential part of the Manitoba experience. Consider it a celebration of our occasional triumph over this harsh land.

Natural disaster: Tornados, blizzards and forest fires all make a strong case, but they can't touch a flood when it comes to damaging property, generating headlines or providing a convenient excuse for tax hikes.

Sport: Sorry, hockey fans, but Manitobans are better off with a broom in their hands than a stick. We've won the most Briers of any province, we still produce some of the best teams in the world, and curling has played an important role in the social fabric of rural communities for decades.

Drink: No contest here. Crown Royal is the world's top-selling Canadian whisky, and it's made exclusively in Gimli. Around five million bottles were produced last year, and half of them were consumed within the province on Saturday nights at community centres and Legion halls.

Reptile: It's said you can see more snakes at one time in Narcisse that in any other place on the planet, so how about a little love for the red-sided garter snake? At least a ceremonial licence plate?

Job: For historic purposes, it would be easy to pick the voyageur or the farmer. But in modern Manitoba, there's little question the official provincial job should be the bureaucrat. Nothing gets done here without government involvement, getting a public-sector pension is like winning the lottery and children grow up with dreams of becoming a mid-level manager for the department of water stewardship.

As for the fish, one of the early front-runners is the pickerel. But it's known for having great vision and being strategic about how it supports itself, so that's not going to work.

Instead, my vote is for the goldeye. Not just the name of every mayor's favourite baseball team, the "Winnipeg Goldeye" is actually considered a culinary delicacy.

Plus, it's a small fish that prefers slow-moving waters, and it's often overlooked by big-time anglers. That sounds a lot like Manitoba to me.

Happy birthday, Buddha!

AHN YOUNG-JOON/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's the journey, not the destination

Buddhists carry lanterns in a parade during the Lotus Lantern Festival to celebrate the upcoming birthday of Buddha on a street in Seoul, South Korea, Sunday.

Legend has it that Buddha was born to a royal Hindu family in what is now Nepal, and on the night he was conceived, his mother, Queen Maya, dreamed a white elephant with six white tusks walked around her three times, then hit her and disappeared into her right side. When she became pregnant, Queen Maya set off for her father's kingdom to give birth, as was the tradition.

But Buddha was born along the journey in a garden beneath a sal tree.

On a full moon

Although the exact date is unknown, scholars believe Buddha was born around 2,557 years ago. In Korea, his birthday is traditionally celebrated on the full moon in May.

The light in the dark

Across Asia, Buddha's birthday is celebrated with colourful parades. The lighting of a lotus-shaped lantern in Buddhism traditionally symbolizes a display of religious devotion to performing good deeds and lighting up the dark parts of the world that are filled with agony.

Citizen journalism. Community News Commons offers free workshops

News worth sharing

Media will always have to report on the tough stuff. But we know that Canada is full of compassionate people, inspiring projects and stories worth celebrating. Here's just one.

With the world plugged into social media 24-7, bystanders can share their news and become makeshift journalists with the click of a button.

With an eye to sharpening the skills of these budding reporters, Winnipeg's grassroots media outlet, Community News Commons (CNC), is currently offering 17 free training workshops ending May 29.

An initiative of The Winnipeg Foundation, CNC was formed in July 2012 by Noah Erenberg with just over a dozen citizen journalists. Less than a year later, CNC has more than 400 citizen journalists.

"Obviously people are hungry to tell stories from their communities. There is a real need for people to want to share this type of information, and stories and ideas from their own world," says Erenberg.

The training workshops include sessions on writing, photojournalism and video journalism, and are taught by pros from the CBC and the Winnipeg Free Press, among others. For more information and to register for these workshops, visit communitynewscommons.org.

RE: Hockey Alberta to Ban Body Checking at Peewee Level, published May 8

As players for the Calgary Saints Division 2 Peewee Hockey Team, we disagree with the ban on checking in the Peewee and Bantam age groups.

We are both 12-year-olds. If the ban on checking goes ahead, when we get to the Bantam level where checking is allowed, we will be playing against players who will have three years of playing with checking, while we will only have one year of experience. We will have forgotten how to check safely, and will be injured much more easily. Also, if you ban checking at this level only in Alberta, when we go out of province to play, we won't know how to take a check safely.

The way we watch television has changed rapidly over the last decade with the rise of the Internet. Today, all it takes is a smartphone to plug into your favourite program. Over the next few days, Metro takes a look at how television has shaped us, and where it might go next. Today, we take a look back, beginning in a time when the concept of television was an intellectual imagining.

Amanda Bynes handed three-years probation for driving offence

Amanda Bynes has been sentenced to three years of probation for driving on a suspended licence, according to TMZ. She was also fined $300. Bynes' lawyer appeared on her behalf to enter a plea of no contest late last week while the troubled actress continued her escapades in New York City. Bynes was charged with driving on a suspended licence last fall, and her licence had been suspended due to two previous hit-and-run charges that were later settled. She still faces charges from an April 2012 arrest for driving under the influence.

Jessica Alba was something of a hard-drinking, car-stealing wild child, she admits to her mother during a sit-down with Entertainment Weekly. While reminiscing about the first boy she brought home as a preteen, Alba fesses up: "We accidentally drank Wild Turkey," she says. "How old was I with Santino? Eleven?" But that's not the only memory Alba has of her bad behaviour. "Remember when I used to steal the car and go to Jack in the Box?" she asks her mom. "We could go get food. Like, that was our activity! But I was, you know, 12."

Lohan has a pout while Pattinson and Perry hang out

This week in bridal fashion crimes. The colours for Mama June and Sugar Bear's wedding were camouflage, hot pink and orange while, much worse, Keira Knightley got married in a dress she'd worn back in 2009.

Researchers at the University of New South Wales find that men with beards are generally judged much more attractive than clean-shaven men. That explains the surge in sales at Eddie's Go-To Goatee Emporium.

In Dubai, a fan jumps the stage to hug Justin Bieber. Didn't we tell you not to grow that wispy moustache, Justin? Hmmm?

Robert Pattinson has reportedly been hanging out with Katy Perry. Don't panic, Robsten fans, he just wanted to find out what it's like to look at someone who occasionally arranges her mouth into the facial configuration commonly known as a "smile." He's safely back home now.

Martha Stewart says she regrets she never tried talking up Paul Newman and Robert Redford and getting to know them when she regularly sold them pastries at a Connecticut bakery decades ago. Even the regrets of celebrities are so much better.

Shia LaBeouf hands out copies of his self-penned comic book to strangers. "Not again," says the local garbage collector.

Lindsay Lohan calls her 90-day rehab sentence "pointless." "That may be true for you," say the drivers of Los Angeles, "but at least it gives the rest of us a break from the endless terror."

Chris Brown says, "I'm really not into wife-ing (Rihanna)." Asked to clarify what he meant, he added that he's still really into strife-ing with her.

Tom Hardy is reportedly being "comforted" by Noomi Rapace after breaking up with fiancée Charlotte Riley That is so, so sweet of Noomi. Not everybody would take the time to help out someone that homely, un-muscled and lacking in charisma.

Tom Cruise signs up for Mission: Impossible 5. The next instalment in the action series will focus on Ethan Hunt's use of a variety of blinking, bleeping and bloinging gadgets to track down an elusive person: a wife who'll look pretty and won't get any ideas about divorce.

Helen Mirren, dressed as Queen Elizabeth, left a London theatre in the middle of a play to go outside and berate a group of drummers who were disturbing her performance. The drummers immediately stopped and made a vow to never do acid again.

To friend or not to friend Mom on Facebook?

Josh Knoller, a young professional in New York City, spent years refusing his mother's "friend request" on Facebook before, eventually, "caving in."

Today they have an agreement: she'll try not to make embarrassing comments, and he can delete them if she does.

One in three mothers are connected with their teens over Facebook, according to the social networking giant's review of how users self-identify.

With more than one billion Facebook users, that's a lot of mothers and kids keeping in touch through social media, says Fordham University communications professor Paul Levinson, author of New New Media. "Facebook has been a boon to family relationships," says Levinson.

Kelly McBride, an assistant professor of communications at LaSalle University in Philadelphia, says her students who "friend" their mothers keep their Facebook pages benign, using other social media like Instagram or Twitter for the racy stuff.

"They may be willing to 'friend' their mother, but when they do, they take down the drinking or partying or suggestive photographs," she says.

Meanwhile, parenting expert Susan Newman recommends that mothers wait until their children are independent adults before friending them.

Is three really more stressful?

New study. Weighing in on a report that claims three is the most stressful number of kids to have

IT'S ALL RELATIVE
Kathy Buckworth,
kathybuckworth.com

One of my favourite lines from The Simpsons is when Bart complains he is having the worst day of his life. "So far," responds his unsympathetic yet correctly predictive father Homer.

I liken that to a study by Today.com that suggests three is the most stressful number of children to have.

A mom of three explains that, versus two kids, the stress level increases when it comes to things like crossing the street. I would agree that getting three kids to do anything in tandem is harder than getting two kids to do it. But I have four kids, and to the best of my recollection, I don't recall sprouting an extra arm when that last child arrived.

Maybe for moms of three, three is the most stressful number of children for them to have ... so far.

The study indicates mothers of more than three kids, on average, described themselves as at a lower stress level than their triumvirate sisters.

It concludes that families with more than three children experience the Duggar Effect, referencing the TLC reality family with 19 children.

While I am 15 short of this number, I admit older kids can, on occasion, help younger kids. But does that really offset the stress of knowing you have more children to feed, clothe, potty train, change sheets for, teach how to drive, suffer through first dates with, explain birth control to and pay post-secondary education for? According to MoneySense.ca, the average cost of raising a child in Canada is almost $245,000. Adding this expense for each child doesn't raise your stress level? Really?

I'm not saying that three kids aren't stressful for a lot of people. It can be. Just like it is very stressful for some parents of one child, two, four, five, etc. I call it the Pitter Patter Principle. (The original Peter Principle I'm referencing states that people are promoted to a level of incompetency.)

One study claims that families with three kids have increased stress levels. ISTOCK

Perhaps those who are lucky enough to actively choose the number of children they have sometimes also reach beyond the level of what they would see as acceptable stress. They are not incompetent in this way, of course; they just learn when to stop.

So what comes first? The proverbial chicken or the fertilized egg? The stress of having kids or the stress level of the parents prior to having them? Since we can't give back the number of children we had past the third one to do a truly fair comparison (I may have tried), I guess we'll never know. KATHY BUCKWORTH IS AN AWARD WINNING WRITER. Instead of the typical white-flour pizza crust, try this linguine pasta crust, which has more fibre and nutrients, and goat cheese that goes so well with the seafood.

1. Preheat oven to 350 F. Cook pasta in boiling water according to package instructions or until firm to the bite. Drain and place in mixing bowl. Add egg, milk and Parmesan cheese. Mix well. Pour into pan and bake 20 minutes.

2. In non-stick skillet sprayed with vegetable spray, sauté seafood just until cooked, approximately 3 minutes. Drain and set aside.

3. In same skillet, heat oil; sauté garlic, peppers and onions for 4 minutes.

This recipe serves six. MARK SHAPIRO, FROM ROSE REISMAN BRINGS HOME LIGHT PASTA (ROBERT ROSE)

4. Meanwhile, in small bowl combine stock, milk and flour until smooth. Add to skillet and simmer on low heat until thickened, approximately 2 minutes, stirring constantly. Add dill and seafood. Pour into pan. Sprinkle with mozzarella and goat cheese; bake for 10 minutes. Let rest for 10 minutes before serving.

- 3 tbsp grated Parmesan cheese
- 8 oz seafood, (shrimp, scallops, squid)
- 1 tsp vegetable oil
- 1 1/2 tsp crushed garlic
- 3/4 cup diced sweet red peppers
- 1/4 cup chopped green onions
- 1/4 cup sliced red onions
- 1 cup cold seafood or chicken stock
- 1 cup 2% milk

Pulled Chicken gets a Caesar salad touch

With temperatures getting warmer, we'd rather be soaking up the heat than cooking in it.

Although slow cookers are known for their ability to prepare hot comfort foods through the winter, savvy Canadian families are finding that slow-cooker meals in the spring offer them more time to enjoy the season instead of spending it inside worrying about dinner.

One of these great recipes is the Pulled Chicken Caesar Salad Sandwich.

1. Pour 1/2 of the barbecue sauce into the bottom of your slow cooker.

Ingredients

- 1 500 ml jar of your favourite barbecue sauce
- 4 boneless, skinless chicken breasts
- 1 ET TU Caesar Original Salad Kit
- 1 head of fresh romaine or 2 romaine hearts
- 6-8 kaiser rolls or hamburger buns

This recipe serves four. NEWS CANADA

2. Layer chicken pieces into bottom of slow cooker and pour remaining barbecue sauce over your chicken. Cook on low for 6 hours.

3. Once cooked, remove chicken from slow cooker, place on a cutting board and, using two forks, pull chicken into shreds.

4. Place chicken back in cooker, stirring until mixture is evenly coated. Cover and cook for approximately 30 minutes to absorb more liquid.

5. While chicken mixture is simmering, create your caesar salad using an ET TU Caesar Original Salad Kit. Prepare salad according to package directions.

6. Once ready, place chicken, topped with caesar salad mixture, on buns. NEWSCANADA.COM

Laying out the law: Get familiar with the field beyond the faces on TV

The jury's in. A world of opportunity awaits you in the land of the legal, but where do you successfully start your search?

YLVA VAN BUUREN
CareerBear.com

Setting your sights on the legal landscape but afraid of spending several decades in school? There are a variety of ways to get involved. ISTOCK

OK, you're addicted to law shows on TV — and if nothing new is on, you won't mind watching the old Law & Order episodes you now know by heart.

Maybe you should consider a law career.

Sure, you could apply to law school, but there are other opportunities to work in the legal system that can be equally rewarding.

How about becoming a law clerk or paralegal?

A law clerk's job is mostly administrative, relieving lawyers of routine duties and helping them with more complex legal work when needed.

A paralegal has been educated to take on more legal responsibilities, but still under the guidance of a lawyer.

Their work touches every aspect of law, from land-use and expropriation, to criminal, tax, entertainment law and more.

A typical day might include drafting correspondence and legal documents, reviewing documents, researching, conducting client or third-party interviews and liaising with clients, courts and other counsel.

In Ontario, for example, paralegals can now be licensed and regulated like a lawyer (by the Law Society) and can practise law within a restricted scope, appearing before certain lower-level courts and administrative tribunals.

They have to pass a licensing exam.

Both the law clerk and unlicensed paralegal do not have to carry any liability insurance, while a licensed paralegal does.

There are college-level programs for both law clerk and paralegal.

Know your stuff

"As a law clerk you have to understand the process inside out. That means you need to anticipate what the next step is and what the requirements will be so you're always ahead of the game.

- Paralegal: $37K – $55K

CAREER PATH

- Law clerks often start as admin assistants in a law firm and work their way up to a law clerk position.
- Paralegals also start in a law firm, and in Ontario they can become a licensed paralegal as well. Law clerks, paralegals and licensed paralegals (in Ontario) could find themselves working in the legal department of a large private corporation.
- Others might work in smaller legal departments at banks, insurance companies, government offices and private businesses.

Have you got the goods?

Successful law clerks and paralegals are:

- Enterprising
- Ambitious

Study says there's more to flipping burgers than students may know

Young and able.
Research reveals that students who take on jobs in high school more likely to succeed

JULIA FURLAN
Metro World News

According to a study published by Drexel University's Center for Labour Markets and Policy, teens who spend some time bagging groceries or cyphoning fries into happy meals have a larger shot at success throughout their career.

Paul Harrington, a Drexel University labour economist and lead author of the study, says that work experience in a formal job during high school (from ages 16 to 19) correspond to a 20 to 25 per cent increase in salary for teens almost a decade later.

Can I get you a career with that? ISTOCK

In this case, a "formal" job means a gig in food service or retail for a larger company, as opposed to work like babysitting or cutting the neighbor's grass. High school students who work, he says, are also more likely to have a job a decade after high school than their peers. The numbers are even stronger for teen boys, Harrington says.

"I think there's a dignity in work," Harrington says. "It's really important for people to understand how they contribute to making an organization function. The way you understand how that works is by doing it."

The other piece of data that the study revealed is that attendance in high school is a very strong indicator of good things to come.

Harrington says that having high daily attendance in school means that students have a much higher chance of graduating from college.

"Woody Allen said 90 per cent of life is showing up," Harrington says. "Turns out he was right."

The wonders of work

"It's really important for people to understand how they contribute to making an organization function."
Paul Harrington
Drexel University labour economist

Frown-worthy findings

So what's the bad news?

The Drexel University study also found that as the economy has suffered, jobs for teens have become more difficult to come by. In the Metro Philadelphia area, for example, the study revealed that in 2000, about 44 per cent of teens between the ages of 16 and 19 had jobs. Today, that number has fallen to 25 per cent, mostly due to the lack of employment opportunities, and also to the fact that older workers are holding onto jobs longer than they have in previous decades.

NHL playoffs. First-round clash now in do-or-die scenario as Buds finally give Toronto fans a post-season win at ACC

Captain Dion Phaneuf and Phil Kessel scored third-period goals as the surging Toronto Maple Leafs edged the Boston Bruins 2-1 Sunday night to send their playoff series back to Boston for Game 7.

Milan Lucic scored for Boston with 26 seconds left in the third.

Game 6

Maple Leafs	Bruins

The only time Toronto has come back from a 3-1 deficit to win the series was the 1942 Stanley Cup final against the Detroit Red Wings. The Leafs trailed 3-0 in that series before reeling off four straight wins.

Toronto's last Game 7 win was in 2004 — the last time the Leafs made the playoffs — when it beat Ottawa 4-1 to wrap up their first-round series.

The Leafs will have momentum in their corner this time. The Bruins' companion will be self-doubt after a second failed attempt at closing out the series.

James Reimer was again steady in the Toronto net, making 29 saves to earn the win.

For Phaneuf, scoring was sweet redemption after being involved in the play that led to the Bruins' overtime winner in Game 3.

It came at 1:48 of the third period after Nazem Kadri ripped a wrist shot that was tipped in by Phaneuf, who had made his way to the front of the goal after continuing his rush. Boston had lost the puck in the Toronto end on an attempt at a flash pass by David Krejci.

Sunday night's win snapped the Leafs' 54-year home playoff drought against the Bruins. Toronto's last home playoff win against Boston was March 31, 1959, a 3-2 win in overtime. Nine straight post-season home losses followed in the decades since with Boston outscoring Toronto 38-24.

Henrik Lundqvist slammed his stick in disgust when an overtime loss in Washington put the New York Rangers on the brink of elimination.

Two days later, the star goalie pumped his arm and let out an emphatic yell when his shutout kept the Rangers alive to force a Game 7 in the U.S. capital.

Lundqvist was the difference Sunday in stopping 27 shots for his seventh NHL playoff shutout. The reigning Vezina Trophy winner was perfect in making Derick Brassard's second-period goal stand up in a 1-0 win over the Capitals that forced a deciding game in the first-round series.

"We needed it. There was desperation out there," Lundqvist said. "We showed a lot of character and worked really hard. It was that type of game where you pay the price — big saves, physical. Great win."

Despite having little room for error, the Rangers stayed composed and played a disciplined game in which they took no penalties until a big scrum after the final buzzer.

Now the Rangers hope momentum carries over to Game 7 on Monday night in Washington. The home team has won all six games so far in the series.

"They play really well at home and they're confident," Lundqvist said. "The games we've played in that building, special teams have played a big part. We played a really disciplined game, and that's going to be key for us because they have a really good power play, so you have to respect that.

"Play hard, but play smart."

Jeff Skinner wasn't on the ice much, but made a huge impact in Canada's 2-1 win over the Czech Republic at the IIHF World Championship on Sunday.

The Carolina Hurricanes forward scored on an end-to-end rush after weaving through the Czech defence and burying a wraparound behind goalie Ondrej Pavelec at 6:55 of the third period.

His goal stood up as the winner as Canada (5-0-1) secured a quarter-final berth in the tournament.

On Sunday

Canada	Czech Republic

"Any goal when you play for your country is pretty cool," Skinner said.

His eight minutes 48 seconds of ice time was the least among Canadian forwards Sunday as the 20-year-old from Markham, Ont., wore the Maple Leaf in his third world championship. His eighth career goal was a memorable one.

"When I got over the red (line) I knew I didn't want to dump it in, and when I was at the hash marks, I saw the goalie a little bit out and challenging the shot," Skinner said. "When he was cutting off my angle, I just tried to take it around the weak side and again, I think it sort of bounced off something.

"I just sort of guessed and guessed right."

Wayne Simmonds scored his first of the tournament for Canada, while defenceman Dan Hamhuis led all Canadian players in ice time and shifts despite joining the team the previous day.

Mike Smith made 30 saves for his second win of the tournament and also picked up an assist on Skinner's goal.

Petr Koukal replied for the Czechs (3-3-0), whose quarter-final prospects depend on beating Norway on Tuesday. The Czechs won the bronze medal the last two years.

The top four teams in each pool of eight advance to Thursday's quarter-finals, with one playing four and two playing three in each group.

Canada will finish no worse than second in the Stockholm pool. They play winless Slovenia on Monday.

Curry overcomes ankle worry to lead Warriors' OT flurry

NBA playoffs. Golden State and San Antonio head into Game 5 tied two games apiece

His spirits down, his left ankle limp and his team's season hanging in the balance, Stephen Curry wondered whether he could recover for the biggest game of his career until a text message popped up on his phone around 2 a.m. Saturday.

Curry called back his mother, Sonya, and vented his frustrations about his latest — and most inopportune — injury setback. Finally, she spoke up to calm his concerns.

"She just reminded me ... to rely on my teammates and support," Curry said.

What followed was a Mother's Day masterpiece.

Curry scored 22 points to go with six rebounds and four assists on a bum ankle, rallying the Golden State Warriors past the San Antonio Spurs 97-87 in overtime Sunday to even the Western Conference semifinal at two games apiece.

"It seems like every time you get on a roll and feel somewhat healthy there's a setback," said Curry, who shot 7-for-15 from the floor, including 5-for-10 from 3-point range. "And it just tests you. It changes your routine. It changes your outlook on the game, your preparation. You've got to deal with the injury and the adjustments your making as a team."

Game 5 is Tuesday in San Antonio.

Harrison Barnes had 26 points and 10 rebounds, Jarrett Jack added 24 points in reserve and Andrew Bogut grabbed 18 rebounds to help Golden State erase an eight-point deficit in the final five minutes of regulation. The Warriors followed that up by scoring the first nine points of overtime.

Woods talks with clubs for TPC title

Tiger Woods had the last word against Sergio Garcia by winning The Players Championship on Sunday.

Woods ended a weekend of verbal sparring with Garcia by doing what he does best — closing out tournaments, even if he let this one turn into a tense duel over the final hour at the TPC Sawgrass. Tied with Garcia with two holes to play, Woods won by finding land on the last two holes for par to close with a 2-under 70.

Garcia was standing on the 17th tee shot, staring across the water to an island as Woods made his par. He took aim at the flag with his wedge and hung his head when he saw the ball splash down short of the green. Then, Garcia hit another one in the water on his way to a quadruple-bogey 7. He completed his stunning collapse by hitting his tee shot into the water on the 18th and making double bogey.

Horoscopes

Aries
March 21 - April 20
Make an effort to see yourself the way others see you today. It's great that you have such a strong self-image but sometimes it makes it hard to understand why not everyone looks at life the same way.

Taurus
April 21 - May 21
The methods you have been using may be effective for you but that does not mean they are right for everyone. You will find yourself at odds with someone you work with today.

Gemini
May 22 - June 21
Your heart and your head are pulling you in opposite directions and it won't be until later in the week that you choose one approach over the other.

Cancer
June 22 - July 23
Keep your wits about you as the new week begins and try to maintain a light-hearted attitude to everything that happens. Some people may be feeling a bit down but that does not mean you have to get down there with them.

Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
The best way to deal with people who annoy you is to ignore them. There is something imperious in the Leo nature and if you make out that someone does not exist no one else will believe they exist either.

Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
It may be tempting to sell off a treasured possession so you can pay an outstanding debt but that's not a good idea.

Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
The cosmic pattern is slowly but surely shifting in your favor and by the end of the week the dark days will be behind you. Today you will have to deal with an emotional issue of some kind.

Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
You will have to make a difficult decision either today or tomorrow and some people are sure to be disappointed. That's not your concern. The only thing that matters is you stay true to your principles.

Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
You may be easygoing by nature but when aroused you make a tenacious opponent. Today's events will encourage you to stand up for those who cannot stand up for themselves. With you on their side they might just win.

Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
You may worry that if you don't act quickly you will miss out on an opportunity of some kind but it isn't true. In fact the planets indicate most strongly that you should bide your time.

Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
If you have to be critical of someone today, either at home or at work, make sure you wrap up what you say in some kind of sugar coating. Not everyone has such a robust ego as you.

Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
Throwing money at a problem won't get you anywhere. If you stand back from your current situation a bit you will see it's not nearly as bad as you fear. It never is. SALLY BROMPTON
